Managers and Shop Stewards

shop floor revolution?

Al Marsh

INSTITUTE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

NCI Library
3 9006 01053903 1

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF ART AND DESIGN LIBRARY

This book is due for return on or before the last date shown below.

Don Gresswell Ltd., London, N.21 Cat. No. 1208 DG 02242/71

Managers and Shop Stewards
Shop Floor Revolution?

Arthur Marsh

Senior Research Fellow in Industrial Relations
St Edmund Hall, Oxford

331.8133

Institute of Personnel Management
5 Winsley Street, Oxford Circus, London W1N 7AQ

First published 1973
© Arthur Marsh
No part of this publication may be reproduced in any form without written permission.

ISBN 0 85292 089 x

Set in 10 pt Garamond

Barcode No: 3900 6069288
Dewey Dec: 331.8733
Date Input: 23/04/1998...
Price:

Printed in Great Britain by
Cox & Wyman Ltd, London, Reading and Fakenham

Contents

Chapter		Page
	Introduction	7
1	Managers and Shop Stewards A I Marsh	9
	The growth of workplace bargaining	9
	Workplace bargaining and the unions	24
	Workplace bargaining and management	31
	The future of workplace bargaining	40
2	Shop Steward Organization in the Engineering Industry A I Marsh and E E Coker	50
3	Engineering Procedure and Central Conference at York in 1959: a factual analysis A I Marsh	78
4	Managerial Functions in Engineering A I Marsh	109
5	Trade Union Workshop Organization and Facilities in Engineering A I Marsh, E O Evans and P Garcia	121
6	The Staffing of Industrial Relations Management in the Engineering Industry A I Marsh	135
7	Managers, Shop Stewards and the Industrial Relations Act: The Search for a New System A I Marsh	155

Coming to Terms with Trade Unions

W E J McCarthy and A S Collier

This book is about the nature of the challenge which trade unionism presents to management and the steps which management has to take to deal with it. Six case studies show how ways of dealing with employees are found to be increasingly inappropriate as unions gain recognition and extend collective bargaining in a given firm or industry. The emphasis throughout is on strategy rather than tactics, on the questions that need to be answered if trade union-management relations are to be improved and adapted to fit changing circumstances over the medium and long term.

£1·25; 80p IPM members 163 pp 0 85292 077 6

Industrial Tribunals

Roger Greenhalgh

This book aims to provide a guide for the individual, whether employee or employer, for whom the likelihood of an appearance before an Industrial Tribunal has increased in the light of recent legislation. Roger Greenhalgh describes the history and philosophy of Industrial Tribunals, their procedures from the Originating Application to the judgement – and after, and details the preparation and presentation of a case.

£2·00; £1·50 IPM members 224 pp 0 85292 084 9

Unfair Dismissals and the Law

S D Anderman

The dismissal provisions of the Industrial Relations Act 1971 were designed with at least two aims: to extend statutory employment protection for employees in their contractual relationship with employers; and to create a further element in the legal framework of collective labour relations. These provisions have been in force since February 1972. This book aims to describe how the law of unfair dismissal has been interpreted by the NIRC and industrial tribunals during the first year of operation, and attempts to assess the implications of their decisions.

£1·75; £1·25 IPM members 184 pp 0 85292 087 3

ISBN 085292 089 X

We have no evidence that effective government intervention would produce a better workplace bargaining situation than that we now have . . . but there is no doubt whatever that governments will go on trying, and for two principal reasons. In the first place, the credibility of government is involved. Having damned our traditional system as ineffective and inefficient, politicians can scarcely, at this stage of the game, turn their hands from the plough and have no positive views about how workshop relations ought to be conducted. Secondly, our entry into the Common Market makes it quite certain that the subject will not be allowed to drop.

This collection of writings by Arthur Marsh and his associates develops the theme of his original Managers and Shop Stewards and concludes with his assessment of our industrial relations system past, present and future.

THE INSTITUTE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT
CENTRAL HOUSE, UPPER WOBURN PLACE
LONDON WC1H 0HX
Telephone 01-387 2844