Strike and Structural Change

The Future of the Trade Unions' Mobilisation Capacity in Europe

331.89

The European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) is the research, information/documentation and educational instrument of the European trade union movement. It was established in 1978 on the initiative of the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC) to deal with European aspects of economic, social and political developments of particular importance for workers and their trade unions. The following are the national trade union organisations affiliated to the ETUC. They are also members of the ETUI, as are the 16 industry committees affiliated to the ETUC.
